

SpongeBob the Musical (Youth Edition)

Monologues

You may choose any ONE of the monologue options

SpongeBob: I don't get why everyone's so worried. Sure, that volcano might destroy everything. But on the other hand, it might not. The world may be a horrible place, but it's our horrible place...with the best abject misery there is! They'll see: everything's under control. Right?

Squidward: All right, gotta get this concert organized. The Electric Skates...with very special guest Squidward Q. Tentacles! I still remember my third-grade talent show, the other fish calling me Loser! Loser! But you got me through it, Mama. You told me someday I'd play the Bikini Bottom Bandshell. Before time runs out, I will prove you right. Hit it!

Sandy: Let's face it, I'll never fit in here. Then again, I never really fit in Texas either. I was always the odd rodent out. No one knew what to make of a girl-squirrel who was into science and martial arts. I've never felt at home anywhere, really. And now it's time to fig up my acorns again and push on.

French Narrator: Meanwhile, at the base of Mount Humongous, SpongeBob and Sandy are ze only hope for Bikini Bottom. Will they reach the top before Plankton and Karen can stop them? Zut alors! It is a race against time.

Mayor of Bikini Bottom: Ladies and gentlefish, if this mountain erupts, orange rivers of steaming lava will obliterate all we know and love. But don't worry, your government has everything under control. In the meantime, all citizens must return home and remain indoors.

Karen: It was under your Tsunami Maker 2000, across from your Tornado Maker 5000... next to the mop. We can use it to start a landslide that they'll never survive. Then Chumville, here we come!